■ What They're Looking For

Elena Vasquez is looking for a primary residence for her family, specifically a condo or single-family home with 2 bedrooms. Her budget is up to $600,000, and she prefers properties in Aventura or Coral Gables. She requires elevator access and a single-story layout, and would like to be close to amenities like pharmacies, grocery stores, and medical facilities, with good walkability. This is for her elderly parents, who have limited driving ability.

■ Clarifying Questions for First Call

Since we don't have specific property matches, let's focus on gathering more information to better understand Elena's needs. Here are some questions to ask on the first call:

* Can you tell me more about your ideal location within Aventura or Coral Gables?

- * How important is it for the property to have a yard or outdoor space?
 - * Are there any specific amenities you're looking for in the building or community, such as a pool or community room?
 - * Can you share more about your parents' mobility needs and how that will impact your property search?
 - * Are you open to exploring other neighborhoods that may offer similar amenities and walkability?
 - * What is your expected timeline for moving, and are there any flexibility in your budget?
 - * Have you considered the importance of proximity to public transportation for your parents?

■ Suggested Next Action

Call Elena Vasquez at 305-555-0271 to introduce yourself and ask the clarifying questions above. Discuss her priorities and preferences in more detail, and explore potential neighborhoods and properties that fit her criteria. Be sure to emphasize the importance of walkability and proximity to amenities, given her parents' limited driving ability.
